New mayor of New Brockton introduces himself

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Coffee County Commissioners met the new mayor of New Brockton during their meeting Monday morning, Jan. 22, at the county complex in New Brockton.

Charles "Chuck" Schieffer was selected to be mayor by the New Brockton Town Council in October 2023 to complete the current municipal term. He replaced Ralph Medley who had resigned the post.

Mayor Schieffer was in attendance for Monday's commission meeting, and chairman Dean Smith recognized him to introduce himself to all and discuss his plans for the town.

"The plan right now is on-the-job training," Schieffer joked. "I was selected by the council in October to be mayor and since December have been trying to get my feet on the ground [for the position]."

The new mayor said he would like to work to improve the general conditions of New Brockton, adding that he had met earlier Monday morning with Coffee County engineer Michael Walters to discuss a couple of streets that need to be looked at for the town. Also, he said he wants to look at improving or doing something with the old city hall building.

Schieffer added that he has a military background and retired after 29 years of service. He said he and his wife have been in New Brockton since 1995.

"So far, [being mayor] has really been interesting," he said. "I have enjoyed meeting people and going to various events so far."

He said he looked forward

Elba Mayor Tom Maddox says officials ready to meet & discuss direction for Coffee County Lake

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The Elba City Council conducted a relatively routine meeting Monday evening, Jan. 22, with the majority of the time being spent on a review of financials.

As the mayor and council members looked at the numbers comparing this year with last, Mayor Maddox noted that overall the report looked good with spending down and various revenues up for the year.

Police Lt. Russ Young attended the meeting in place of interim Chief Shayne Arnett. He noted that Chief Arnett had gone to the doctor earlier in the day and could not be there.

Young said the department had hired a new officer that has begun work. Prior to coming to Elba, he said the officer had been employed full-time with Andalusia and part-time with New Brockton. Now, he said he would be full-time with Elba and to working with the Coffee County Commission.

"We appreciate you for putting yourself out there for service," Smith said to Schieffer as he concluded the introduction.

Regarding county business, the county engineer asked commissioners to approve a proposal from JM Wood Auction to place five dump trucks and six tractors (used to bush hog) that are being replaced in rotation in the JM Wood auction set for March 19-22 in Montgomery, Ala. Walters said JM Wood had proposed a minimum guarantee for the sale of the items at $1,182,500 with a commission rate of seven percent.

Commissioners voted unanimously to approve this request.

remain part-time with New Brockton.

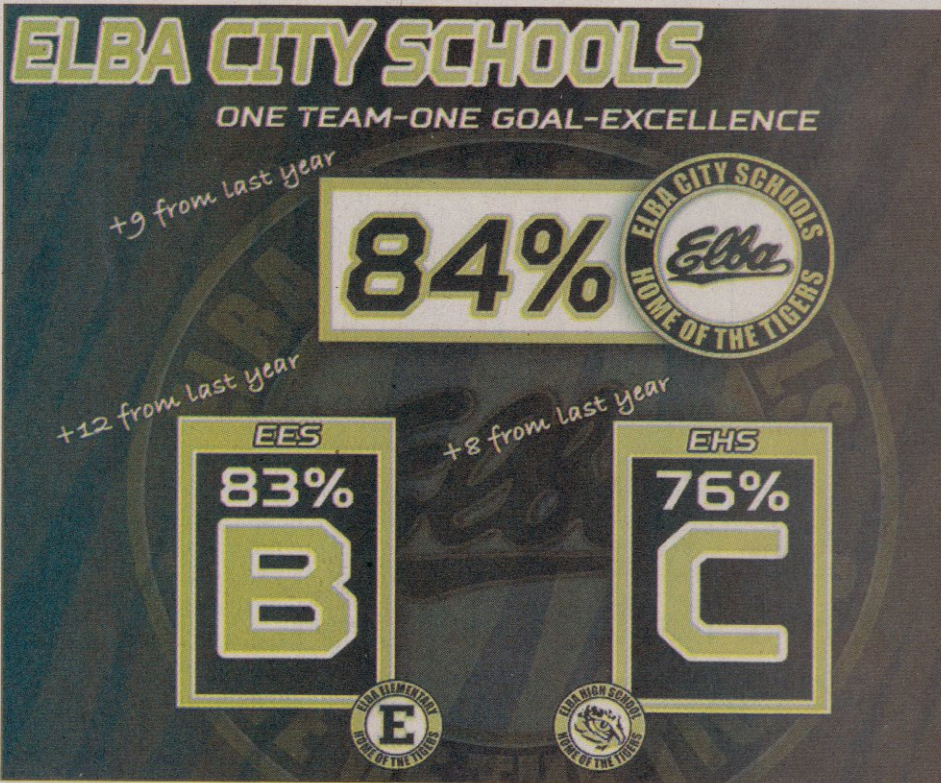

Council member Bryan Grimes asked where that has the police department regarding staff, and Young said the department is still a few officers short but not "real bad off" currently. He did add that one officer is currently out on medical leave.

The council looked at a proposal for lawn care service on properties the city inherited from the Elba Healthcare Authority when it dissolved recently. These properties are located in the area of Highland Drive and Drayton Avenue.

After reviewing the document, council members voted to bid the lawn care services for these properties, and that advertisement for bids will begin once a "bid opening date" is determined.

Mayor Maddox said officials are ready to have a meeting between state Department of Conservation

Superintendent makes announcement at school board meeting

Elba Elementary School earns state recognition for 12-point improvement on annual "report card"

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Schools throughout Alabama received their 'state report card' results in mid-December, just as most were headed into the Christmas holiday break. During last week's Elba Board of Education meeting, Superintendent Chris Moseley announced that the 12-point score improvement for Elba Elementary School on this year's report card had earned the school state recognition.

Moseley had received notice from the Alabama State Department of Education (ALSDE) letting him know the state "recognizes schools for the Legislative School Performance Recognition Program each year." That program is designed to identify schools in one of two categories:

1. Schools that demonstrate high performance by being ranked in the top 25 percent of public schools, as ranked in the school grading system.

2. Schools that demonstrate exemplary progress by improving the overall annual ranking of the school by at least one letter grade, as ranked in the school grading system.

Elba Elementary School qualified for recognition in the improved category for the 2022-2023 school year.

Elba Elementary Schools scored a "B" on its report card with an 83%. That was a 12-point improvement from the school's score the year prior.

While that alone would be enough for any school administrator to be pleased, Moseley said he was proud of all at Elba City Schools because this year's report card results also showed vast improvements for the high school and overall system. He said it was evidence of the hard work of the teachers, administrators and students at Elba City Schools.

Elba High Schools report card grade improved eight points this year to 76% giving the high school a "C" grade.

Overall, the Elba City School System achieved a "B" on the report card for the 2022-2023 school year with a grade of 84%. That was a 9-point increase for the system.

"I am very proud of the accomplishments the system has made regarding this year's report card scores...," said Elba Superintendent Chris Moseley. "I'm extremely proud of staff and the students for their hard work!"

COVID years we felt good, but once we received our first report card which was last year we were all very disappointed," Moseley said. "Therefore, we went to work and it shows. It really shows the dedication of the faculty and staff at both schools to raise the scores like they did. I'm extremely proud of them and the students for their hard work!"

During the board meeting Moseley said he, along with Elba Elementary School principal Kenya Martin, counselor Anna Marie Moore, and reading specialist Sasha O'Neal would represent the elementary school Thursday, Feb. 8, at a 10 a.m. meeting in Montgomery where the school would be recognized for its exemplary improvement on its annual ranking.

"We are very excited about this opportunity and recognition," Moseley said to board members.

Also, during the board meeting, the superintendent presented several policy changes for board members to consider. The majority of these changes were simple 'wording' changes to adopt verbiage that aligned better with state requirements. Other policy changes were additions of policies required by the state.

There were no personnel matters for board members to consider during this meeting.

Board members were thanked by the central office staff for their dedication to the school system as January is School Board Member Appreciation Month across the state.

First Baptist Church Elba begins new ministry aimed to help boys ages 7-17 with no father/male role model in their lives

First Baptist Church Elba is starting a new ministry through the Fathers in the Field® program, created to assist single moms with boys ages 7-17.

Fathers in the Field was created by John Smithbaker, a man who was deserted by his own father at a young age. Upon accepting Christ in 2002 and being reconciled to his Heavenly Father, Smithbaker started a journey of understanding, acceptance, and most importantly, extending and asking forgiveness.

In 2005, Smithbaker was inspired to create a way to seek and help others suffering the pain of a father's abandonment, and Fathers in the Field was born.

There is no cost - only commitment - to be involved with this ministry. Boys ages 7-17, who need male role models qualify [do not have a father or male mentor in their life] for the program.

The mission of Fathers in the Field is to rekindle and establish the spirit of boys who have been abandoned by their fathers; mentoring them one-on-one in life skills through outdoor activities, and by sharing a Christian understanding of the Heavenly Father's love and sacrifice for His children.

To discover more about Fathers in the Field® visit the website: www.fathersinthe-field.com or call First Baptist Church Elba at (334) 897-2246.

We can end cervical cancer in our lifetime

Editorial by Nancy Wright, Director, Cancer Prevention and Control Division, ADPH

I was raised in Butler County, Ala., surrounded by caring family members and friends. I married my high school sweetheart, and we chose to raise our two daughters in Butler County so we could offer them the same opportunities we had to be surrounded by family and be part of a community that cares and supports one another.

This upbringing is what motivated both my husband and me to pursue careers in public health. I have had the opportunity to spend the past 20 years of my career working to educate citizens about breast, cervical, colorectal, prostate, lung, and skin cancers, among others.

I have worked to promote prevention of cancer through healthy habits and to promote screening to find cancer early when it is most treatable. I've worked with cancer survivors and their families, advocates, universities, businesses, churches, and communities to host free screening events, improve access to care in rural areas, and raise awareness of the importance of cancer screening. It has been the most positive, action-oriented, hopeful, and fulfilling experience.

However, despite all we have done, my home state has one of the highest rates of death from cervical cancer in the United States. As a matter of fact, we are one of the top five states that have the highest rate in the nation. This is especially unacceptable given that cervical cancer is one of the only cancers that can be stopped—actually eliminated—in our lifetime.

This made me reflect on these past 20 years as a public health servant. The common thread in most of our accomplishments in Alabama has been that when women and communities come together to fight against cancer, they make a difference. I know from this experience, if we work together, we can end cervical cancer in our communities.

It takes three steps to eliminate cervical cancer: 1) Increase HPV vaccination, 2) Increase cervical cancer screening through HPV/Pap tests, 3) Ensure women return to their health care providers for further testing and treatment when screening tests show abnormal cells.

Cervical cancer is caused by HPV, the human papilloma virus. Nearly everyone is exposed to this virus in their lifetime. For most people, their body destroys the virus, but for a small percentage of people, their body doesn't destroy the virus. Over time, the virus can cause precancer which can lead to cervical cancer if not treated.

The HPV vaccination ensures that the body is protected from the infection in the first place. It is important to vaccinate girls and boys when they are young, age 9-12 ideally, before they are exposed to the virus. Girls and boys can receive the vaccine from age 9-26.

The HPV vaccine actually protects girls from getting cervical cancer. It also helps to protect against head and neck cancer and anal cancer in boys and girls and penile cancer in boys.

The second step is to get regular screening for cervical cancer. The HPV/Pap test can detect if a female has the HPV virus. The third step, follow-up/treatment, is important because it provides the opportunity for a health care provider to follow a woman more closely in the event of an abnormal cervical cancer screening. A second test may then be needed to examine the tissue and determine if there are precancerous cells; this test is called a colposcopy.

Many women who find that their HPV/Pap test is positive, don't return to their health care provider for the follow-up colposcopy. It is very important to follow up with your health care provider.

A colposcopy determines if there are pre-cancer or cancer cells. If found early, the cells can be easily removed. If not found early, invasive cancer is possible and can lead to death.

Lou Lou has been joking for weeks that her plan was to wear tennis shoes with her dress that evening, and Sister has been determined to keep that from happening. If she could get away with it, that is exactly what Lou Lou would do, but she crumbled under Sister's piercing eyes and purchased shoes more appropriate for the event.

It became quite comical at the shoe store as Lou Lou found her shoes, relatively quickly, and she even got the nod of approval from Sister right away on the shoes, which was surprising to both of them. Sister, on the other hand, was about to need to pay rent in the store before she made her decision on shoes.

Multiple shoes were 'tried on' in various designs and heel lengths. Then, there were the pictures that needed to be taken of the shoes on Sister's feet to help determine which ones looked the best [if they passed the first test of 'feel good']. Thirdly, said pictures had to be texted to others to get opinions on which looked best.

It was a whole ordeal! In between taken said photos for Sister, Lou Lou had to just find a place to sit down and wait because there was no need to interfere with the process.

Eventually, Sister narrowed down her search to two pair. Lou Lou offered her opinion on which one she liked best. Others being kept in the loop via text had agreed that either would be good, so, it basically came down to Sister deciding on one.

Well...that final decision became the hardest of all for Sister. So, she just bought 'em both!!

“What in the name of Yonder are you doing?!?!?” Lou Lou wanted to know. “You can only wear one pair that night! Why are you buying them both?!?!?” “It will be a game time decision,” was Sister's explanation. “I like them both so when I get dressed Saturday, I will just wear the one I chose in that moment. Then, I will still have the other to wear another time!”

To Sister, it was a win-win situation. To Lou Lou, it was an over-purchase. Oh well...it's Sister's money to spend [or waste] however she chooses! Now, we will wait and see which pair goes to the party, and which one stays home just waiting for its day to shine!

Until next time...God Bless and Keep Smiling!

and children without health insurance coverage, the ADPH can provide the HPV vaccination at no charge. In addition, I manage a program called the Alabama Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program (ABCCEDP) that provides the HPV/Pap test, colposcopy, and other needed tests to diagnose and treat cervical cancer at no cost to the women who live in Alabama.

To learn more, call your local health department for information about HPV and the ABCCEDP Program. You can also call the ABCCEDP hotline at 1-877-252-3324 to find out where to get your HPV vaccination and where to get screened for cervical cancer.

The ADPH is committed to this public health problem; in May 2023, our State Health Officer launched an action plan to eliminate cervical cancer in Alabama. Called "Operation WIPE OUT," the plan outlines the actions we can take as physicians, nurse practitioners, nurses, business leaders, advocates, and community leaders to implement these three steps and WIPE OUT Cervical Cancer in our state. As a result, Alabama is the first and only state in the nation to announce its intent to eliminate cervical cancer. We are the first state to respond to the World Health Organization's 2020 Call to Action to eliminate cervical cancer as a public health problem globally.

The Operation WIPE OUT founding partners include ADPH, TogetHER for Health, the University of Alabama at Birmingham Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, O'Neal Comprehensive Cancer Center, Rotary Club of Birmingham, Rotary Club of LaFayette, American Cancer Society, and Quality of Life Health Care Services. Since its launch, many other partners have joined, and all Alabamians are invited to join the collaboration and support the elimination of cervical cancer through HPV vaccination, screening, and follow-up/treatment. To find out more, visit our website at alabamapublichealth.gov/cancer/cervical.html.

Join me in this fight against cervical cancer. Help me end cervical cancer in Alabama. I have no doubt that everyone in our state will come together to promote these three steps in their communities and to support one another in this campaign to WIPE OUT Cervical Cancer.

Knowing my daughters can grow up without fear of cervical cancer and that their children may not even know what cervical cancer is, is worth fighting for.

The Role of Hobbies in Grieving

When a loved one passes away, families must decide what to do with their social media accounts. Many families opt to keep their loved one's accounts active for friends and family to share memories and condolences. Facebook has a special feature where families can convert a deceased loved one's Facebook page into a memorial page.

Memorialized pages, or accounts, are a place on the internet for friends and family to gather and share memories after a person has passed away. Memorializing an account helps keep it secure by preventing any unauthorized person from logging into it.

When an active Facebook account is converted to a memorial account, here's what changes: "Remembering" is displayed next to your loved one's name on their profile; Depending on the privacy settings you choose during setup, extended family and friends can share memories on the memorialized timeline; Content your loved one shared while active, like photos and their posts, stay visible on Facebook to whoever your loved one originally shared with; Your loved one's memorialized profile won't appear in public spaces such as in "Suggestions for People You May Know" or in birthday reminders; No one can log into a memorialized account, and memorialized accounts without an accompanying legacy contact can't be changed.

If you want to change a loved one's Facebook page into a memorial page you can contact Facebook. However, you should also check to see if your loved one named you, or someone else, as a legacy contact.

A Facebook legacy contact is someone designated by a Facebook account-holder while alive to look after their account when it's memorialized after their passing. Anyone with a Facebook account can make this simple arrangement ahead of time.

A Legacy Contact can: Write pinned posts for your loved one's profile. As an example, you can share a final message they have asked to be shared upon their death, or a favorite poem, piece of music or video; View all the person's posts, even if they had their privacy setting set to Only Me; Decide who can see and who can post tributes, and to create an area for those tributes; Delete inappropriate tribute posts; Change who can see posts that the deceased person is tagged in; Remove tags of the deceased person that someone else has posted; Respond to new friend requests appropriately; Update your loved one's profile picture and cover photo; Request the removal of the account; Turn off the requirement to review posts and tags before they appear in the tributes section, if the deceased person had "timeline review" turned on; Download a copy of anything shared on Facebook.

Entitled

There she was, leaning on the horn of her SUV in the mall parking lot. How could that other driver have had the nerve to zip into the coveted parking space ahead of her? Surely that driver had seen that her blinking turn signal entitled her to that spot!

The verb entitle and its associated noun entitlement have taken on a negative ring over the years. The reason for this is that these words are often uttered in contexts of demanding what one thinks is owed. People use these words as justification for behaving as though they deserve honor, acknowledgment, and other considerations. This is reflected in one particular dictionary definition that entitlement is a "belief that one is deserving of... certain privileges." That same dictionary also offers this definition of the verb entitle: "to furnish with proper grounds for seeking or claiming something."

Today's text and others in Hebrews address a legal right that was purchased when God's son died in our place: His death furnishes the proper grounds for us to have eternal life (compare Hebrews 9:15). Let us be quick to add the entitlement created is God's not ours. He is entitled to us, not we to Him. Jesus is the One who holds "the keys of hell and of death." (Revelation 1:18) Not us. Even so, God's entitlement yields astonishing benefits. One is His invitation to "come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need." May we do so out of a sense of gratitude, not entitlement. -V.E.

Views From The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

Our youngest grandson Cannon may be bound to be a world traveler, or at least someone that enjoys getting out of the house. Every time his Nanny goes over to babysit they take long strolls around the neighborhood and he gets to see the world as he knows it at the ripe old age of just seventeen months. Ah yes, no doubt the world will only get bigger and bigger!

For what it is worth....

 It was quite a week for the basketball teams at Elba High as both the Tigers and Lady Tigers rolled to four straight wins. The Tigers stunned area leading Florala early in the week and all of the sudden have a shot at pulling off a shocker by claiming the regular season crown. Everyone on the roster has been a part of the recent surge, but perhaps none more than junior guard Alvin Henderson, who since a visit from an Alabama assistant football coach has averaged almost 20 points a game and has become the team's leader on the court. As for the girls, the Lady Tigers made it look easy in all four wins as they posted lopsided wins in all four games and in a new look used an aggressive defense to lead the way. If the Lady Tigers can put some points on the scoreboard and still play their style of defensive aggression, the sky is the limit.

 The high school basketball season is quickly winding down and it looks like all the teams in the area still have a real chance at making noise heading into the tournament. In boy's action, Zion Chapel has been a team to watch all season and isn't backing down, while New Brockton is getting better and better and is a team no one wants to play, Brantley is much better than any think and is always a threat, and Kinston is just sitting and waiting to pull off an upset. Over on the girls side, New Brockton and Kinston are both on a roll and looking ahead to the post-season, while Brantley can never be overlooked and Zion Chapel is playing to get better and have fun. It looks like a fun time ahead when the area tournaments tip off.

 Former Alabama football coach Nick Saban stated "The University of Alabama has been a very special place," while speaking in an interview after his retirement, and after reading a recent article in Forbes there are a couple of million reasons why. According to the business magazine, Saban has earned an estimated $150 million during his 51-year career that came to an end recently after 17 years at Tuscaloosa. He took home $124 million during his stay at Alabama, and his career earnings are even more than Tiger Woods earned in golf and Rafael Nadal earned in tennis. In his first season with the Crimson Tide, Saban had a $3.5 million annual contract, which ain't bad, but pales in comparison with his $11.7 million annual contract this past season. While the money made as a coach is nothing short of amazing, it doesn't even include all the money he made as the spokesman for various companies or the profit from his nine automobile franchises in Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Tennessee and Florida. Just the two Mercedes Benz dealerships in Miami are valued at $700 million! All Bama fans enjoyed having Saban as the head coach and will never forget all his accomplishments, but the years in Tuscaloosa weren't too bad for the ball coach, either.

 In closing.... The Elba Tigers released their 2024 high school football schedule last week and it looks like the fans will get to stay home six times during the ten-week season. Home games include Glenwood, McKenzie, Kinston, Goshen, Georgiana and Florala, with road trips to Luverne, Brantley, Red Level and Pleasant Home. It won't be as much fun next season when the schedule flips. So, let's enjoy the upcoming season and save on gas.

TROY freshman angler Avery Padgett was the lone Trojan to qualify for the national championship. (submitted photo)

Padgett competes at national championship fishing event for Troy University bass team

by Cliff Lusk, Troy University

TROY freshman angler Avery Padgett has done some serious bass fishing this year, qualifying him to compete in the Major League Fishing's ABU Garcia College Fishing National Championship in January.

Padgett, an Elba native, was the lone TROY angler to qualify for the tournament, fishing at Kissimmee's (FL) Lake Toho.

"This was a huge accomplishment for me as a freshman to qualify for a MLF national championship," Padgett said. "I knew going into it that it wasn't going to be easy, as I have never been to this lake before and with only two short days of practice."

Padgett said his gameplan developed over the two days of practice, where he caught enough fish in practice to believe he could catch about 15 pounds of fish per day in the tournament. That was before a cold front with rain blew in and caused the cancellation of Day 1, a first ever for the tournament.

Overall, Padgett finished the tournament 120th out of 135 teams, weighing in just six pounds, 11 ounces on three fish. The Adrian College team edged out Campbellsville University by 1 ounce to take the win with 10 fish weighing 42 pounds, 4 ounces. Only four single anglers placed in the top 50.

"I was boat 130 out of 138 and had a late weigh-in time, so I thought that would help my bite. Unfortunately, that didn't happen, and I didn't make the right adjustments throughout the tournament to re-locate the fish," he said. "This was a huge learning experience that I can take away from for years to come."

The TROY team competed the week before on the Harris Chain of Lakes, which had also proven a tricky tournament. There, Padgett and his partner Kasen Pemberton were able to salvage some Tackle Warehouse School of the Year points, where the Trojans are currently ranked 26th nationally.

"Florida had my number but there is always next year," Padgett added.

Doing Good in the Neighborhood...The Elba Masonic Lodge #170 had a good year in 2023, and members are looking forward to a great 2024. As one of the most active lodges in the state, members recognize they could not do all they do without the support of the local communities. With that in mind, members are happy to give a little back, and recently, the Elba Public Library received a $300 check from the Elba Masonic Lodge. The funds were given to the library in appreciation for support it gave the masons with their annual car show fundraiser. CCYLP students navigate Fort Novosel

by Chris Mendez,
Fort Novosel Public Affairs

The saying goes, "Seek and you will find." Students from the Coffee County Youth Leadership Program (CCYLP) came seeking leadership examples, lessons, and career opportunities as they visited Fort Novosel on Jan. 10, 2024. According to the Chairman of the CCYLP, Gavin Mauldin, that's exactly what they found. The CCYLP includes students from six different high schools across Coffee County, including Kinston, Enterprise, Elba, Zion Chapel, New Brockton, and Enterprise Christian Academy, who applied and interviewed to be in the program during their junior year.

Their first stop in the morning during the community engagement tour was at the Engagement Skills Trainer inside the Training Support Center. The students familiarized themselves with various weapons, learned how to zero them, and were able to send virtual rounds down range on the trainers during different scenarios.

Students visited Knox Heliport where they got up close and personal with the CH-47 Chinook. Staff Sgt. Colten Lockard from 1-223rd Aviation Regiment connected with each of the youth leaders and discussed the history of the CH-47, its place in Army Aviation, the various leadership roles of each crew member, and the various career opportunities at Fort Novosel.

Students learned that having the proper training and utilizing the correct equipment to accomplish the mission is also an important part of leadership. For each member of the team to function properly they need to be highly trained and properly equipped to succeed.

Rodolfo Gutierrez from Enterprise High School said, "Being inside the helicopter and putting on the equipment that these aviators wear was amazing. It gave me a real sense of what it's like to be an Army Aviator here at Fort Novosel."

"I learned a lot about leadership today, specifically when it comes to what it takes to pilot an aircraft and lead crew members to accomplish their mission. Good communication skills are important in the air and on the ground. It really is a team effort from everyone involved," said Elba High School student Alyssa McFarland.

The final stop on the tour was at the U.S. Army Aviation Museum which maintains a collection of over 160 military aircraft, including one of the largest collections of military helicopters in the world. The students learned more about the history of Aviation through the many exhibits, and memorabilia and how it related to what they experienced throughout the day. Lt. Col. Macky Price, Battalion Commander of the 1-212 Aviation Regiment spoke with the students, explaining what leadership is and the various ways they can implement it into their lives.

"If we can't define what leadership is, then how can we be an effective leader?" said Price. "Leadership and how you interact with people goes hand in hand so helping these students understand how the two coincide together is important for their growth into future leaders in their communities."
